

G | Rising Action

Topic

☐ Personal: Write a story about a time when you were excited.

OR

☒ Creative: Write a story about a character who was excited.

Middle Requirements

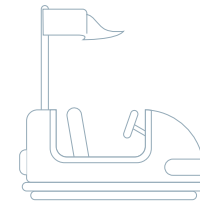

1 Continue writing with the same point of view.	● 3rd person-outsider he, him, his, she, her, it, they, theirs, them
2 Introduce new characters if needed.	● No new characters
3 Sequence the events in the rising action.	● Evo is scared of the coaster. ● Evo convinces Bit to go on another ride instead. ● Evo tries to distract Bit from thinking about the coaster.
4 Use transition words to support the sequence.	● as soon as, while, first, next, then, after
5 Use dialogue to develop the thoughts and feelings of the main character.	● Evo communicates with Bit to show it is nervous about the rollercoaster, relieved when it doesn't go on it and excited about other parts of the park.

Middle

As they got closer to the first ride, Evo felt a turning in its gut when it saw the coaster move up to an extremely high peak, quickly drop, pass by in a flash and flip upside down. "Hey Bit. Can we start on the spinning cups?" asked Evo. "We can, but they are on the other side of the park," replied Bit. "That's okay, we'll get to explore the entire park on the way," said Evo. "Okay, we can come back later. I hope we see a stop for french fries!" exclaimed Bit. As soon as the friends began to move away from the roller coaster, Evo breathed a sigh of relief.

While on the way to the spinning cups, they made multiple stops. First, they went on the bumper cars which made them laugh and smile so hard their faces hurt. Next, they went on a pirate ship that made the excitement in their stomachs drop as they swung high and low. "Look Bit! There's a french fry cart!" shouted Evo. "Are you going to get some fries too?" asked Bit. "Nah, I have my eye on the cotton candy over there," replied Evo. After eating the delicious treats, they got on the spinning cups. "This is my favorite ride! Let's ride it again!" chuckled Evo. "Okay, one more time. Then let's go back to the roller coaster," said Bit.

Narrative in Action | Part 2: Map

2

SAMPLE SOLUTION

